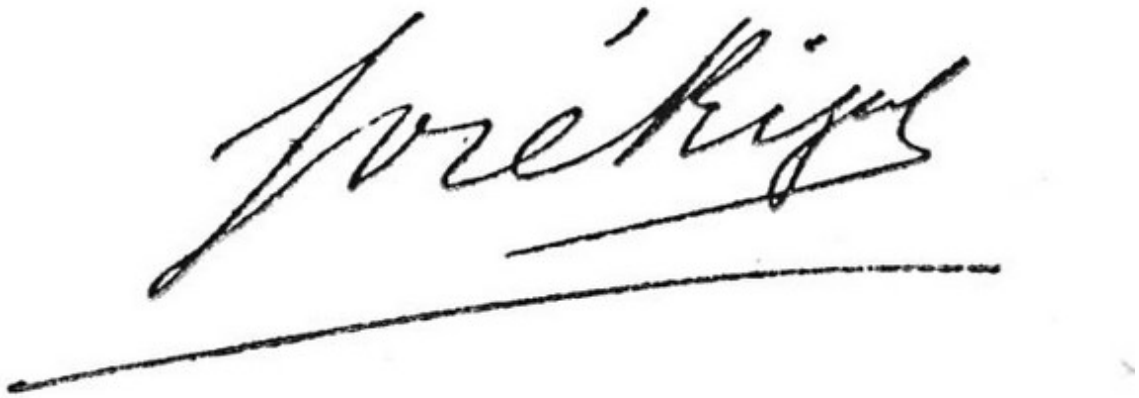
From the Bilateral Minesfield Breakthrough Successor Agreement.



http://thelifeandworksofrizal.blogspot.com/2011/10/rizals-handwriting-and-what-it-reveals.html

Compare the letters 'i' and 'a' in the above signature and the Diaz. They are identical.
The 'D' in Diaz and the 'R' in Rizal both show the same complex looping motion and both touch the previous word.
Both signatures use a final flourish extending halfway back under the signature.

Here, the top part of the 'z' in Rizal is identical to the 'z' in Diaz, the differences are due to one letter being mid-word and the other being a final.